Research now clearly indicates that family-based interventions are among the most effective and enduring for a diverse range of problems, especially:

- Behaviour and mood disorders, especially in children and adolescents
- Trauma, grief & loss, and multigenerational trauma
- Addiction & substance abuse
- Mental illness, chronic pain management, chronic illness, and palliative care
- Social withdrawal and isolation
- Effecting systemic change in larger systems such as schools, public services, mental health services, or community groups.

This 4-day workshop will give you an introduction to the ideas & tools of Family & Systemic Therapy.

Topics include:

• Family of Origin, and multigenerational patterns	• Family relationships, stories, rules, and myths
• The Family Life Cycle, and key stages and transitions	• Joining the family system, developing a balanced
• The most useful ideas of Family Therapy	• Family Experience of Crisis and Family Therapy
• Straightforward and complex relational-emotional systems	• Interpersonal dynamics and maximising opportunity for change

This workshop is a prerequisite for the ACU-WRFTC, AAFt-accredited Master of Family & Systemic Therapy* program.

It is also an opportunity for experienced family workers, case managers, health & community practitioners, and individual counsellors/therapists to get an overview of the leading-edge practices in Family & Systemic Therapy. Non-Therapists who wish to learn more about working with family and human systems can also apply.
